Pontão Marapi Private Villa

Hidden on Dugong Island, deep within the heart of the Vilanculos Coastal Wildlife Sanctuary, lies the veritable jewel of the Indian Ocean, Pontão Marapi, an exclusive private Villa that sets new standards in island-style luxury.

Built in the shade of a giant Masasa tree and designed to facilitate the free flow of air, this private Villa affords its visitors with unparalleled comfort throughout the year. A unique characteristic that sets it apart from all other destinations in this sweltering, tropical island paradise.

The Vilanculos Coastal Wildlife Sanctuary

Biodiversity doesn't get any better than this. The Vilanculos Coastal Wildlife Sanctuary is home to a variety of marine animals, including one of the last sustainable populations of dugongs on the East African coastline. Supporting over 2000 species of fish, hundreds of coral species and 140 species of birds, the reserve provides visitors with a unique opportunity to experience one of the few pristine coastal wildlife reserves on the planet.

Pontão Marapi

Pontão Marapi is more than a travel destination, it's an experience of a lifetime. The Villa is supported by HQ Simegeror, an ocean-going luxury catamaran suitable for pleasure cruises and trips to the famed Bassa da India.

In addition, the Villa boasts Mullet, a fully equipped game fishing boat, which according to Mush Nichols, former captain of the South African fishing team, is extremely well equipped. "Mullet is one of the finest sports fishing boats I have ever skippered. The boat is well laid out, beautifully finished and has perfectly matched power units, making the boat an absolute pleasure to fish from."

The Villa

Drawing upon Swahili and East African design influences, Pontão Marapi encapsulates an air of African beauty while granting guests with an unprecedented level of comfort and design. The Villa has been furnished exquisitely. Seamlessly integrating private suites with central entertainment and living areas.

A 250m jetty stretches out into the calm seas presenting a perfect platform from which to view majestic sunsets.
